

Greetings,

We own a small re-sale clothing business with two brick and mortar stores in Portland, Oregon.

We have had to close both locations indefinitely and lay off employees due to the outbreak of Coronavirus.

We are very concerned about the loss of income for all of us with no end in sight and rent time coming up again soon.

An SBA loan would be helpful but also will make us more in debt during a very uncertain economy.

One suggestion we would have, which we heard going around on the internet, is to somehow freeze rent and mortgage payments until the outbreak is contained and businesses can safely re-open. This would offer a solution to both landlords and tenants - at least to relieve some stress. We also would be grateful for any financial assistance so that we don't have to close our doors all together.

Thanks for your consideration. Stay healthy.

Best regards,

Brigid Flood and Peter Nehring
