

Hello:

I understand there is a lot on your plate right now and I'm sure there are NO easy decisions to be made. I would like to suggest the consideration of some sort of way to help those who have lost their income pay their rent, if they are not already home owners. We are in our 70's and have 5 rentals that create our entire income stream (other than minimum SS). We can not withstand the loss of our income and our renters cannot stand the loss of their home. Where will they go if they have no jobs and lose part of their income. I hope they can all get unemployment and quickly if needed and make ends meet. We have no unemployment or other benefits if we don't receive the rental income. Where will we go for help? So, please consider keeping our renters housed by making some part of their rent payment if their unemployment cannot cover it totally. We have no choice, no alternative for our income.

Thank you so much for taking the time to read this.
