

To Whom It May Concern:

I am a retired widow who invested in rental properties as a form of retirement (6 houses total). After 40 years my investments are now my main income. I have no intentions of evicting anyone and have already granted temporary rent reductions to a couple of my tenants who are now out of work. I am not able to defer entire rent payments without suffering the same loss of income that wage earners do, however without any form of recourse. I am asking you to please consider the small landlords during this difficult time as well as tenants.

Thank you.
