

Lawmakers: Rather than scapegoating Employment Agency Director Kay Erickson for the slow processing of unemployment claims, why not be constructive and work to upgrade the agency's computer systems and increase staffing. Auditors warned you for years that the technology needed to be upgraded. Firing agency heads may look like you are doing something but will probably prolong processes. Oregon voter, Carol E. Johnson