

I am a columnist for Street Roots. Please take a few moments to read my article, "Individual Results May Vary" (see link below). I highlighted some of the best practices and policies that led me off the streets and into a meaningful life. My hope is you will continue to build on what is working and that you will extend these efforts to include more of the Black community. Please consider race, class and gender as key factors among other vulnerabilities during our current (and all) public emergencies. Thank you.

<https://news.streetroots.org/2018/10/26/recovery-individual-results-may-vary>

Dustin Dandliker

"Talk to strangers." -Saul Williams