

Police are mandated to protect and serve.

Citizens are given the right to gather.

While some individuals may at times (and are normally not) act illegally, at no point can it be verified that an entire crowd is acting illegally.

Tear gas is therefore always an evaluation on the part of the people deploying it, and therefore should be banned.

Be well,

Brian Gardner

Beaverton, OR