

Hi there,

I've been waiting on unemployment benefits since the end of March. I didn't get any updates until July 31, when I was told I could qualify for Benefits While You wait while my claim is in adjudication. As of 9/2, I have yet to receive any money or any further contact about my claim.

I'm a high-risk individual who has been self-quarantining at home since March, as per Gov. Kate Brown's order. My claim is in adjudication (I assume) because I quit my job right before Brown's order and was unable to secure a new position before being told to stay home.

I have the same story as everyone else who is still waiting on benefits in that I'm out of money and desperate for some sort of hope. Thanks for reading.
