

I absolutely think it morally wrong for a government to make it mandatory to vaccinate. We the people deserve to have choice for what goes in our body and the bodies of our children.

The immune system and mental/emotional health of an individual person is what makes the difference of whether or not they get ill from anything.

Drop this bill! It's not going to be helpful on so many levels to the communities or the government! You just don't see it yet.
