

To the Committee:

This bill is pointless and not needed. If the majority of children are already vaccinated, what difference does it make if a few are not? The vaccinated ones would be protected and the unvaccinated would only be hurting themselves. Most of my 9 siblings had measles before the vaccine became available and we all survived. Now indeed I realize that occasionally measles can affect some children adversely with serious consequences, yet

I believe from anecdotal evidence that vaccines can also have unintended affects. Why the inception of autism since vaccines, esp. the MMR? You may think this is settled science, but so was the flat earth settled science and people were put to death for holding the round earth view. There is no emergency here and certainly an opportunity for divergent views seems warranted with vaccines. Why force your religious views on everybody?

Thanks for the opportunity to express my views. Please listen and do the right thing.
