To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to express my opposition to HB 3063.

It the job of the doctor and families involved to assess each individual's risk factors and benefit/risk scenario in terms of vaccinations. In no way can a blanket government protocol take into consideration each individual's risk factors and susceptibility to vaccine injury.

The AAPS (Association of American Physicians and Surgeons) states: The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons (AAPS) strongly opposes federal interference in medical decisions, including mandated vaccines. After being fully informed of the risks and benefits of a medical procedure, patients have the right to reject or accept that procedure. The regulation of medical practice is a state function, not a federal one. Governmental preemption of patients' or parents' decisions about accepting drugs or other medical interventions is a serious intrusion into individual liberty, autonomy, and parental decisions about child-rearing. (more can be read here: <https://aapsonline.org/measles-outbreak-and-federal-vaccine-mandates/>)

I have a high risk child. And while we are not anti-vaccination (we have done many), we know my son's body could not tolerate the excessive amount adjuvants and heavy metals he would be exposed to. My doctor says it would not be a good idea and would likely spiral his condition and make him worse off. Forcing us to do so in plain wrong and NOT in my child's best interests.

Please, say no to HB 3063.

Sincerely,

Tessa Simpson
