

The debate over climate change is over. We're already experiencing extreme temperatures, more frequent & more intense storms, raging wildfires, the extinction of species at an alarming rate & many other symptoms of this man-made crisis. What are we going to do about it? We can either stick our heads in the sand, condemning our children & grandchildren to a bleak future or we can take positive, realistic steps to wean ourselves off fossil fuels & into a clean, renewable-energy-based economy. Here in our state, we've been talking about a Clean Energy Jobs bill for years, but just keep kicking the can down the road. Please, let's make this the year we finally get it done. And please let's not water this bill down to the point where it becomes merely symbolic.
