

Hello Again,

Just a reminder:

*Oregon has a 96% vaccination rate, the current laws are working.

*Oregon cannot afford to lose millions of dollars in tax revenue if all of the families of unvaccinated children leave- just like they did in California. Several other states have expanded exemptions, and some are even calling for holding vaccine manufacturers liable for damages -this is actually a step in the right direction! The tide is turning, let's ride that wave!

*Oregon has more pressing issues with schools, it's educational system and foster care than a few cases of measles.

*Oregon has a proud history of respecting individual rights, let's keep it that way.

*The plain and simple fact is that unvaccinated children cannot spread diseases they do not have. Tearing them out of school, causing financial and psychological trauma all because of something that might happen is just plain bad business.

Thank you for your time.
