Subject: Protect Oregon from mega-dairies by supporting SB 103!
Date: Thursday, March 21, 2019 10:19:53 AM

Dear Testimony Supporting SB 103,

As a constituent in 's district, I urge you to support SB 103 and enact a moratorium on new and expanding mega-dairies. Weak rules have allowed industrial mega-dairies across Oregon to put family farmers out of business, pollute our air and water, and threaten public health and animal welfare. Senate Bill 103 would place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities, the land we live on, and the air we breathe.

The industrial dairy industry, along with officials at the Oregon Department of Agriculture, want us to think what happened at Lost Valley Farms was an isolated incident. That's simply not true. Lost Valley is just one example of the dangers inherent in operating factory farms that are "too big to fail" and capable of causing catastrophic harms. And despite Lost Valley losing its operating permit, it is being sold and could soon be re-opened as another dangerous mega-dairy in the same risky location.

Mega-dairies aren't consistent with kind of state most Oregonians want — one that values and maintains family farms, vibrant rural communities, and a healthy environment. Allowing mega-dairies to expand across our state prioritizes short-term corporate profits over these long-held values.

When we consider these values, it becomes clear that mega-dairies simply do not belong in Oregon. Please support Senate Bill 103 to place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities and special places.

Sincerely,
Adele Dawson

Subject: Protect Oregon from mega-dairies by supporting SB 103!
Date: Thursday, March 21, 2019 10:16:55 AM

Dear Testimony Supporting SB 103,

As a constituent in 's district, I urge you to support SB 103 and enact a moratorium on new and expanding mega-dairies. Weak rules have allowed industrial mega-dairies across Oregon to put family farmers out of business, pollute our air and water, and threaten public health and animal welfare. Senate Bill 103 would place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities, the land we live on, and the air we breathe.

The industrial dairy industry, along with officials at the Oregon Department of Agriculture, want us to think what happened at Lost Valley Farms was an isolated incident. That's simply not true. Lost Valley is just one example of the dangers inherent in operating factory farms that are "too big to fail" and capable of causing catastrophic harms. And despite Lost Valley losing its operating permit, it is being sold and could soon be re-opened as another dangerous mega-dairy in the same risky location.

Mega-dairies aren't consistent with kind of state most Oregonians want — one that values and maintains family farms, vibrant rural communities, and a healthy environment. Allowing mega-dairies to expand across our state prioritizes short-term corporate profits over these long-held values.

When we consider these values, it becomes clear that mega-dairies simply do not belong in Oregon. Please support Senate Bill 103 to place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities and special places.

Sincerely,
D Stirpe

As a veterinarian, I am concerned with the health of the dairy cattle, in a mega-dairy where the large herd numbers are forced to live in incredibly close quarters, dependent on daily antibiotic therapy in their food to cover up poor husbandry. This kind of industrial dairy farm is far from a depiction of health.

The industrial dairy industry, along with officials at the Oregon Department of Agriculture, want us to think what happened at Lost Valley Farms was an isolated incident. That's simply not true. Subject: Protect Oregon from mega-dairies by supporting SB 103!
Date: Thursday, March 21, 2019 10:19:11 AM

Dear Testimony Supporting SB 103,

As a constituent in 's district, I urge you to support SB 103 and enact a moratorium on new and expanding mega-dairies. Weak rules have allowed industrial mega-dairies across Oregon to put family farmers out of business, pollute our air and water, and threaten public health and animal welfare. Senate Bill 103 would place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities, the land we live on, and the air we breathe.

The industrial dairy industry, along with officials at the Oregon Department of Agriculture, want us to think what happened at Lost Valley Farms was an isolated incident. That's simply not true. Lost Valley is just one example of the dangers inherent in operating factory farms that are "too big to fail" and capable of causing catastrophic harms. And despite Lost Valley losing its operating permit, it is being sold and could soon be re-opened as another dangerous mega-dairy in the same risky location.

Mega-dairies aren't consistent with kind of state most Oregonians want — one that values and maintains family farms, vibrant rural communities, and a healthy environment. Allowing mega-dairies to expand across our state prioritizes short-term corporate profits over these long-held values.

When we consider these values, it becomes clear that mega-dairies simply do not belong in Oregon. Please support Senate Bill 103 to place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities and special places.

Sincerely,
Hm Mm

Dear Testimony Supporting SB 103,

Hi

I hope this finds you well

I'd like to ask you to support SB103

I milk a few cows and have for 22 years. Cows appear to do well as a herd of at least 8 animals

They thrive on pasture and are almost completely without health problems if they are given good conditions.

I first new that large commercial dairies were unhealthy when I picked up manure to compost from a relatively small, by some standards these days, dairy and it was piled by the sick pen.

The cows were in bad shape.

If that were not enough, the concentration of large or mega dairies leads to such a waste concentration hazard that it creates huge risk and likely problems for the soil and groundwater.

Thanks

Kevin Jones

Sincerely,

Kevin Jones

Dear Testimony Supporting SB 103,

As a constituent in 's district, I urge you to support SB 103 and enact a moratorium on new and expanding mega-dairies. Weak rules have allowed industrial mega-dairies across Oregon to put family farmers out of business, pollute our air and water, and threaten public health and animal welfare. Senate Bill 103 would place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities, the land we live on, and the air we breathe.

The industrial dairy industry, along with officials at the Oregon Department of Agriculture, want us to think what happened at Lost Valley Farms was an isolated incident. That's simply not true. Lost Valley is just one example of the dangers inherent in operating factory farms that are "too big to fail" and capable of causing catastrophic harms. And despite Lost Valley losing its operating permit, it is being sold and could soon be re-opened as another dangerous mega-dairy in the same risky location.

Mega-dairies aren't consistent with kind of state most Oregonians want — one that values and maintains family farms, vibrant rural communities, and a healthy environment. Allowing mega-dairies to expand across our state prioritizes short-term corporate profits over these long-held values.

When we consider these values, it becomes clear that mega-dairies simply do not belong in Oregon. Please support Senate Bill 103 to place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities and special places.

Dear Testimony Supporting SB 103,

As a constituent in 's district, I urge you to support SB 103 and enact a moratorium on new and expanding mega-dairies. Weak rules have allowed industrial mega-dairies across Oregon to put family farmers out of business, pollute our air and water, and threaten public health and animal welfare. Senate Bill 103 would place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities, the land we live on, and the air we breathe.

The industrial dairy industry, along with officials at the Oregon Department of Agriculture, want us to think what happened at Lost Valley Farms was an isolated incident. That's simply not true. Lost Valley is just one example of the dangers inherent in operating factory farms that are "too big to fail" and capable of causing catastrophic harms. And despite Lost Valley losing its operating permit, it is being sold and could soon be re-opened as another dangerous mega-dairy in the same risky location.

Mega-dairies aren't consistent with kind of state most Oregonians want — one that values and maintains family farms, vibrant rural communities, and a healthy environment. Allowing mega-dairies to expand across our state prioritizes short-term corporate profits over these long-held values.

When we consider these values, it becomes clear that mega-dairies simply do not belong in Oregon. Please support Senate Bill 103 to place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities and special places.

Sincerely,
Nannette Taylor

Subject: Protect Oregon from mega-dairies by supporting SB 103!
Date: Thursday, March 21, 2019 10:17:33 AM

Dear Testimony Supporting SB 103,

As a constituent in 's district, I urge you to support SB 103 and enact a moratorium on new and expanding mega-dairies. Weak rules have allowed industrial mega-dairies across Oregon to put family farmers out of business, pollute our air and water, and threaten public health and animal welfare. Senate Bill 103 would place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities, the land we live on, and the air we breathe.

The industrial dairy industry, along with officials at the Oregon Department of Agriculture, want us to think what happened at Lost Valley Farms was an isolated incident. That's simply not true. Lost Valley is just one example of the dangers inherent in operating factory farms that are "too big to fail" and capable of causing catastrophic harms. And despite Lost Valley losing its operating permit, it is being sold and could soon be re-opened as another dangerous mega-dairy in the same risky location.

Mega-dairies aren't consistent with kind of state most Oregonians want — one that values and maintains family farms, vibrant rural communities, and a healthy environment. Allowing mega-dairies to expand across our state prioritizes short-term corporate profits over these long-held values.

When we consider these values, it becomes clear that mega-dairies simply do not belong in Oregon. Please support Senate Bill 103 to place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities and special places.

Sincerely,
Sagen Smith

Subject: Protect Oregon from mega-dairies by supporting SB 103!
Date: Thursday, March 21, 2019 10:16:47 AM

Dear Testimony Supporting SB 103,

As a constituent in 's district, I urge you to support SB 103 and enact a moratorium on new and expanding mega-dairies. Weak rules have allowed industrial mega-dairies across Oregon to put family farmers out of business, pollute our air and water, and threaten public health and animal welfare. Senate Bill 103 would place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities, the land we live on, and the air we breathe.

The industrial dairy industry, along with officials at the Oregon Department of Agriculture, want us to think what happened at Lost Valley Farms was an isolated incident. That's simply not true. Lost Valley is just one example of the dangers inherent in operating factory farms that are "too big to fail" and capable of causing catastrophic harms. And despite Lost Valley losing its operating permit, it is being sold and could soon be re-opened as another dangerous mega-dairy in the same risky location.

Mega-dairies aren't consistent with kind of state most Oregonians want — one that values and maintains family farms, vibrant rural communities, and a healthy environment. Allowing mega-dairies to expand across our state prioritizes short-term corporate profits over these long-held values.

When we consider these values, it becomes clear that mega-dairies simply do not belong in Oregon. Please support Senate Bill 103 to place a moratorium on new and expanded mega-dairies until Oregon acts to protect its communities and special places.

Sincerely,
Toni Gilbert
