

Someone under 18 cannot execute a legally binding contract but some think they should be given the responsibility to vote? I don't think so vote no on SB838 and SJR22!

I don't understand the push to allow youth as young as 16 the right to vote. Most 16 year olds don't care about anything beyond today.

Changing the age to vote 16 makes no logical sense to me. It was just a few days ago I was listening to the argument we should raise the age to purchase ammo or a firearm to 21?

We try to protect our young people because they don't have the capacity to always make right choices. We restrict tobacco product sales to 18 and alcohol sales to 21. Why would anyone think they are responsible enough to vote?
