

Hello,

I am Kelly B Gamache. I have a BS in Biology and have worked in the Veterinary field for 16 years. I have seen vaccine reactions in animals first hand and we, at the vet clinic, take every individual animal into consideration before choosing which vaccines to give them. If their lifestyle does not necessitate a vaccine, it doesn't get given. Human children deserve to be treated at least as well as we treat our dogs.

Being a Biologist with an interest in vaccines, I have looked for and found the information since California's vaccination bill went into effect. California enacted SB 227 in July 2016. Have you looked at their numbers? Their disease rates? They took away the philosophical exemption and the religious exemption and their Pertussis numbers INCREASED for 2017 and have gone higher for 2018. The numbers do support increased vaccination rate. Taking away the rights of the parents to protect their children from a pharmaceutical product that is known to cause harm in some has given their state worse Pertussis rates since their bill went into effect.

Please don't follow California. They allowed a company to talk them into forcing an unsafe, ineffective product upon the California Children. Mandating vaccines does not make them safer. Please mandate that the manufacturers of the vaccines create a product first that does no harm and is effective 100%.

All you need is to see their numbers. If you haven't been given these numbers until today, please ask yourself "why?".

California's information is attached to this email.
