

I am a homeowner in Oregon, and subsequently pay property taxes. Most of those taxes go to fund local schools. It is a constitutional right for every American child to have a publicly funded education, without restriction. Passing a mandate for vaccines and denying the right to an education unless there is compliance is unconstitutional, and as a taxpayer, I want my taxes to go towards all children having access to a public education. We moved to Oregon from California in part because the state seemed to value freedom.

As well, no medical procedure should be enforced. Vaccines are unavoidably unsafe. I believe public information campaigns are a better route to go to persuade and encourage parents to vaccinate.
