BACKGROUND:

Kratom or Mitragyna speciosa is a tree native to southeast Asia. When ingested, Kratom leaves can have an effect similar to both opioids and stimulants. Those using kratom often use it recreationally, to treat pain, or to limit the effects of opioid withdraw. However, there are a few scientific studies on the effects of kratom use or the effectiveness of treatments involving kratom. Kratom is not currently regulated at the federal level though several states have bans on the production and sale of kratom containing products.

Senate Bill 1005 directs the Oregon Criminal Justice Commission to study the relationship between sentences and recidivism rates and report the findings and recommendation to the Legislative Assembly by September 15, 2020.

Oregon legislators created the Task Force on School Safety in 2014, bringing together policy makers from the Governor's office, Legislature, education, law enforcement, fire and rescue and public mental health to collectively focus on strengthening safety in Oregon schools. Since then, the Task Force has worked to share collective expertise, perspective and resources and to identify effective, sustainable school safety strategies. The Task Force established SafeOregon, the statewide tip line where students and parents can anonymously report threats to student safety. Reports to the tip line reveal that our students are struggling with significant challenges, such as bullying and harassment, suicide and self-harm and a variety of threats of violence - all in unacceptable numbers.

The Task Force is scheduled to sunset on December 31, 2019. House Bill 2005 -2 would provide the authority for the Task Force to continue until September 2021.
