BACKGROUND:

The Oregon Department of Agriculture (ODA) is responsible for the inspection, regulation, and licensure of food establishment operations to ensure they are constructed and maintained in a clean, healthful, and sanitary condition.

For licensed food establishments, ODA currently provides a 30-day notice in advance of the license expiration date to remind the business to renew their license. If the establishment fails to renew their license, ODA notifies the establishment 30 days following the expiration date that they will be subject to a delinquent renewal penalty that takes effect 60 days after the expiration date. At 60 days following expiration, ODA sends notice that the license renewal fee in addition to a penalty fee are owed. At 90 days following renewal failure, the food establishment is considered to be operating without a license, and under ORS 561.300, ODA may initiate collections and civil penalty procedures.

For food establishments that have never obtained a license, ODA rule states that a food establishment is considered unlicensed 14 days following the initial ODA inspection of the establishment. ODA may initiate collections and civil penalty procedures at that time.

House Bill 2060-A would authorize ODA, following specified notice requirements, to order condemnation or closure of certain food establishments, and would establish a civil penalty for order violation.
