BACKGROUND:

Oregon law defines the Eastern Oregon Border Economic Development Region as the part of the state that is within 20 miles of the Oregon border with the State of Idaho, including but limited to, the cities of Ontario, Vale, and Nyssa; includes Willow Creek and Brogan; is an area that is across the Oregon border from Weiser, Idaho; and is an area southwest of Vale for a distance of 10 miles. The purpose of the Eastern Oregon Border Economic Development Region is to identify policies and strategies that will promote workforce and economic growth; facilitate development or prevent decline of regionally significant industrial sites; create or maintain jobs; and improve access to CTE, workforce training programs, and higher education to enhance local workforce skills. It is governed by an seven voting-member board, appointed by the Governor. One of the priorities of the Eastern Oregon Border Economic Development Board is to identify areas where differences in professional licensing and certification standards between Oregon and Idaho place the region at a disadvantage. House Bill 2457 A requires TSPC, ODE, and the Office of Child Care to evaluate state requirements to improve licensure reciprocity and working conditions for educators in the Eastern Oregon border region.
