To Whom It May Concern-

I teach math at Beaverton High School in Beaverton, Oregon. I implore you to do all within your means to find a way to consistently fully finance our public schools. I have many classrooms full of kids with great potential that deserve your best efforts.

I was teaching in Beaverton when we had a significant short fall a couple of years ago. We lost many great educators in this last crisis. Class sizes grew; kids did not get the attention they deserved since I was being stretched so thin! I have been asked to help our current budget in anyway I can. I find myself using the back side of old worksheets to make new copies. I cannot believe that the current plan for Oregon education is reliant on me being frugal with paper!

I have future doctors, engineers, chefs, artists, and even politicians sitting in my class. They deserve Oregon's best, so please do all you can.

Thank you,

Jen Weber
