Last week I talked with teachers who were standing in line for the hearing for HB 2019.

One said she had students throwing chairs and this money would stop the behavior because we (the taxpayers) would supply a person to accompany misbehaving students. But as long as the schools tolerate the behavior, having more adults will not stop the behavior.

So, teachers who expect results that money cannot provide will be back demanding more money for problems that still are not solved.

As a taxpayer, I am not happy to provide money that will be wasted in countless ways, none of which will bring solutions to students.

Last year I became aware that South High School in Salem conducted 17 anti-gun rallies, and promoted taking away our god-given right to own and carry a fire arm.

Schools are forgetting how to educate and teachers are not able to teach.

As one teacher said to me, "And How do you expect me to teach Moby Dick if I can't teach about homosexuality?" Huh?!

As you throw OUR money at schools we have a right to expect students to be educated, not sent into a war zone. And there doesn't seem to be the kind of product we should expect for our money.
