BACKGROUND:

Senate Bill 205 (2017) permitted teachers to teach for 90 days without a license if they submitted an application for licensure and completed all required background checks. The purpose of this legislation was to allow school districts to employ teachers while their applications are being processed. Senate Bill 1520 (2018) then expanded this option to all employees that require educator licensure. Under current law, the Teacher Standards and Practices Commission (TSPC) may not limit the number of times an educator is employed under the 90-day licensure exemption. TSPC reports that several educators have applied two or three times for the same license in order to extend the 90-day unlicensed employment period.
