This is a reckless Bill! Basically a give-a-way to Developers, that does a way with local control. Until rich folks quit coming prices won't come down. Seattle was one of the top 5 cities for adding units last yr..been building for years. Prices still high and rising. People who have bucks will always get the house they want..Developers will always build towards fattening their own wallets. Any savings from splitting the cost of land among more units, Duplexes etc. will just add to profits for them or the speculators who build to rent. If you don't know that by this stage of your life..perhaps you shouldn't be making decisions for the entire State.
