

As a citizen of Oregon who cycles for transportation every day I highly encourage the implementation of a law that allows cyclists to treat stop signs as a yield sign. Similar rules have been used in Idaho, Delaware, Colorado, and Arkansas. This law change exemplifies typical cyclist behavior already. It represents a safe and efficient way for cyclists to cross an intersection. This would not lead to cyclists blatantly plowing through intersections as dramatized on TV and movies. Please support cycling in our state and make it easier for more people to utilize bicycles as an efficient means of transportation. Thank you for considering this opinion.

--

Erin Napier
University of Kentucky
Doctor of Physical Therapy 2016
napier.run.90@gmail.com