OPEN GOVERNMENT IMPACT

Legislative Counsel has not adopted standards for drafting measures that establish exemptions from disclosure of public records.

This measure has an indeterminate open government impact. It is not clear what types of exempt records would be provided to the Department of Land Conservation and Development, whether the proposed electronic information system would serve only as a repository for records or if new records would be created by combining information from multiple sources. Even if new records were to be created by combining exempt and non-exempt information, it is not clear whether this measure creates a new exemption from the disclosure of public records or if it merely instructs the Department of Land Conservation and Development to always claim the existing exemption for exempt records of another agency found in ORS 192.355 (10).

Based on the preceding discussion, it is also indeterminate as to how this measure would impact public interests in disclosure that would be served if the public records were subject to mandatory disclosure.
