Prohibits person buying, selling, transporting in intrastate commerce, or receiving egg or egg product not produced in compliance with specified laws under conditions meeting or exceeding enclosure standards adopted by Oregon Department of Agriculture (ODA). Makes exception for sale of egg or egg products produced at an official plant as defined in federal law where mandatory inspection is maintained under federal Egg Products Inspection Act. States that state laws governing processing and sale of eggs are in addition to, not in lieu of, other animal welfare statutes. Defines "cage-free housing system." Directs ODA to adopt rules to require that egg-laying hens be housed in cage-free housing systems and establish usable floor space requirements. Requires ODA adopt rules that establish a usable floor space requirement that equals or exceeds standard in specified guidelines. Requires ODA to impose a civil penalty for violations. Establishes exemptions from prohibition on confinement of egg-laying hens. Makes changes operative January 1, 2024. Requires ODA to adopt rules no later than January 1, 2023 to become effective January 1, 2024. Changes from January 1, 2026 to January 1, 2024 repeal date for law expressing legislative finding that no less than 25 percent of the enclosures used to confine egg-laying hens should, no later than January 1, 2020, meet standards equivalent to the requirements for certification of enriched colony facility systems established in the American Humane Association's farm animal welfare certification program. Repeals existing prohibition against selling products of improperly confined egg-laying hen effective January 1, 2024.

ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- the definition of cage vs house
- how the bill aligns with interstate commerce
- all eggs sold in Oregon would have to comply with the law
- the legislation does not encompass roosters or non-egg laying hens

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

Exempts state inspection of commercial farms with annual egg production of not more than 3,000 egg-laying hens; or eggs produced by a commercial farms with cage-free housing systems.

BACKGROUND:

There are three common housing systems for egg-laying hens in commercial use: cages, free-range, and barns.

SB 1019 B STAFF MEASURE SUMMARY

In 2011, the legislature adopted Senate Bill 805 prohibiting the confinement of egg-laying hens in an enclosure that did not comply with rules adopted by the Oregon Department of Agriculture (ODA). Hen enclosures constructed or acquired on or after January 1, 2012 were required to meet, or be converted into, enclosures meeting standards for certification of enriched colony facility systems established in American Humane Association's (AHA) farm animal welfare certification program. Effective January 1, 2017, the measure prohibited the confinement of egg-laying hens in enclosures that provided less than 116.3 square inches of individually usable floor space per hen. The measure also established housing system conversion goals for both January 1, 2020, and January 1, 2023.

Senate Bill 1019 would direct ODA to adopt rules requiring that egg-laying hens be housed in a cage-free housing system effective January 1, 2024. The measure would also create exceptions to the cage-free housing requirement.
