

Hello - thanks for being the task force to study the ongoing, enormous effects of age discrimination in the workplace. The pervasive, demeaning attitude toward older workers and people deprives all society of needed skills, wisdom and energy. As a previous civil right investigator and compliance officer, I often saw the mediocre older employee treated much differently than the mediocre young employee; this is isn't fair but it also costs business and society precious time, effort and productivity.

I will follow your activities with interest, knowing that you will all try to craft the best solution possible for the most people. Thank you.
