I am a Liaison for the Portland Public Schools McKinney-Vento Homeless Program. I am writing to submit testimony in support of HB 2019 and want to ask that you strongly consider including amendments that would help provide more funding for services to homeless youth. In our district, we primarily serve students in kindergarten through high school completion, but also offer services to pre-school students and siblings of our students aged 0-5. One particularly vulnerable subpopulation of homeless youth we work with are the unaccompanied students who are not living with or being supported by parents or legal guardians. These students especially need more resources available to them for housing options, trauma-informed mental health care, and academic support to keep them on track to graduate. There desperately needs to be more funding available to programs such as Harry's Mother and other youth shelters.

Another outstanding and innovative model to serve unaccompanied homeless youth is the Second Home Program. In this program; school district McKinney-Vento liaisons and a conflict mediation agency can connect unaccompanied homeless high school students with families that host them in their homes until they finish high school. This program allows them to have a long term, a stable, healthy living situation so that they can remain in their local school and focus on their academics rather than where they will be sleeping each night. There are several local districts have been using this program with great success. Portland Public Schools would much like to use this program to assist our homeless students, but we currently lack the funds to enter into this partnership. With more financial resources to homeless youth from bills such as HB 2019, I firmly believe that PPS and other districts could expand their services and create Second Home projects to their unaccompanied homeless youth.

Thank you for considering Oregon's homeless youth population as you decide what components of HB 2019 to move forward.
