

I mean im not an engineer or a doctor but to me it seems kinda backwards to make somebody responsible for something that theu sold to someone or was stolen from them. By your logic people are responsible for the cars that are stolen from them or the 20 bucks that is given to the gas station dealer who uses it as change for a methhead that uses it for drugs. All I'm saying is we have enough gun control what we need is people control and start hanging people for their murders and drug slinging crimes .
