

To Whom it May Concern:

Please stop the senseless killing of coyotes in Oregon, who do nothing but keep the rodent population under control and howl at the moon. They are a symbol of the wild west and a native. The fact they are managed as vermin is middle age mentality and wasteful.

I live in rural eastern Oregon and never see them up to much except mousing. Rodents cause far more damage than song dog. Please let the coyote take his proper place in our ecosystem and environment.

Thank you your time.

Margaret Durner
Pine Valley Resident