

I would propose a radical change that would better represent all of Oregon. Oregon has 36 counties, each county would be a district with one Representative and One Senator. This would give a voice to those in Oregon that are currently trying to separate themselves from Oregon because they either have no voice or their voice is weak due to the Willamette Valley controlling how the state operates, generally for the benefit of Portland.

I understand that this is a constitutional change and would require a vote of the people to enact this proposal. But the people who would likely reject it are the very same people that are all in for equity.
