

If you hired me to work for you and I then "redistricted" the business to ensure you could not hire a replacement, you would want to fire me; however, you couldn't, because I rigged the human resources department to favor me.

Republicans are trying to consolidate an analogous takeover of our democracy by cheating the voters out of the ability to select candidates that represent their local community's interests.

It's a scam, and it is immoral, duplicitous, and patently against representative government. Electoral districts must not be carved up in order to favor one party's interests.
