Breaking up the Deschutes Basin into multiple or even two different districts would be unwise from a geographic standpoint.

The maps developed from the democratic suggestions just encourage a super-majority at the national level. We have a 4:1, not 3:2, or even under the current guidance it looks like our Oregon State Legislator is fearful of actually representing our great state in a way that would appear fair.

It dilutes every possible change and looks unfair.

I am saying this as a democrat who feels that both Greg and now Cliff are the best for our local resource management questions, not splitting the Hwy 97 corridor up.

I hope fairness and our future 10 years of the district maps will represent the people of Oregon.

With all inmind,
Mike
