Senate Committee on Human Services,

Transcribed as spoken:

Strangers don't know what I need. Like stuff that I can't eat and my medicine, they might not know how to do it. We also have fun with Dad. Strangers probably don't have time to play with me and don't know which movies are too scary for me to watch. I get nervous sometimes probably when strangers are at my house. Strangers probably don't know how to keep me safe.
