

December 7, 2022

Chair Nosse, Vice Chair Prusak and Vice Chair Hayden, and committee members:

It is my pleasure to speak to you on behalf of more than 13,000 members of the Oregon Nurses Association. I am honored to have had the privilege to represent ONA members on the HB 4003 Nursing Study Advisory Group. ONA members make up a significant portion of the workforce the advisory group set out to analyze.

On behalf of ONA members, I want to thank the authors of the report: Jana Bitton & Rick Allgeyer of the Oregon Center for Nursing and Dr. Joanne Spetz, Emily Shen, and Timothy Bates from the Philip R. Lee Institute for Health Policy Studies at the University of California San Francisco. This team efficiently utilized the extensive knowledge of the Work Group membership and a broad array of data and academic literature to draft an objective and comprehensive analysis of the nurse workforce crisis in Oregon. We appreciate that this rigorous report accurately captures many of the struggles facing ONA members and the nursing profession more broadly.

The report objectively identifies what our members on the frontlines experience every day, every shift: The system is broken and unable to meet the needs of Oregonians. The burden of this reality, and the accompanying moral injury, is placed disproportionately on frontline nurses. We hear it directly from our members working in hospitals, public health agencies, corrections, home health, hospice, ambulatory clinics, every environment our members work in: conditions continue to deteriorate, professionals continue to feel devalued, patients continue to get sub-optimal care and feel frustrated and ignored. This pervasive cycle results in nurses leaving the bedside faster than they can be replaced, causing more fatigue and moral injury for those still at the bedside. The cycle must be interrupted, as the authors of the report note:

“Growing the nursing workforce could take several years ... solutions should focus on retention of nurses currently practicing across Oregon ... The mental health and well-being of Oregon’s nurses must be prioritized ... employers must create healthy work environments and interventions to support employee health and well-being.”

We conclude, from reviewing this report in conjunction with a large body of literature and direct reports from ONA members, the work environment is the predominant cause of Oregon's nurse staffing crisis. The report provides analysis of pipeline and workplace issues that must be addressed to create sustainable, longer-term solutions to the crisis. ONA nurses are clear that we need immediate interventions to address the number one cause of nurse fatigue, moral injury, and burnout: insufficient staffing. Until staffing is addressed many of the recommendations in the report will fail to produce meaningful results.

The nursing education system in Oregon requires significant investment. ONA supports the recommendations in the report. To meet the needs of Oregonians we need engagement, investment, and collaboration from health systems so we can create a more diverse and robust education pipeline that starts in Oregon’s High Schools and ends with more of Oregon’s nurses achieving advance degrees and influence.

The report identifies that Oregon's Nursing programs are more diverse than the nursing workforce and ONA supports the report recommendation that "support services for prospective students from socioeconomically disadvantaged backgrounds, first-generation-to-college, and other under-represented groups must be prioritized."

The report concludes the Nurse Staffing Law needs to be revised. ONA has drafted a legislative concept that does revise the law by providing clarity on minimum staffing levels and establishes mechanisms for enforcement and accountability. ONA members, in most cases, experience management obstruction to meaningful collaboration while the regulatory body, The Oregon Health Authority (OHA), fails to enforce the law and hold hospitals accountable to it.

OHA provides ample evidence that they have not enforced the law in any meaningful way since they began surveying hospital nurse staffing in 2017 (See attached document). In 2021 OHA surveyed 15 hospitals and as of October 10, 2022 have accepted a plans of correction from only 9 of them. One hospital, OHSU, is on its 6th plan of correction nearly 1 and a half years after OHA cited them over a dozen times for repeated non-compliance with several provisions of the law, including failing to consider how nurses get meal and rest breaks and establishing minimum staffing levels in staffing plans.

That is one example out of dozens available to review on the OHA Nurse Staffing website. Hospitals willful disregard for collaborative structures in the staffing law are extensively documented in the public record. OHA has never issued a civil monetary penalty even though 24 of 25 hospitals who underwent revisits from OHA received citations for repeated non-compliance, demonstrating hospitals made no effort or progress in complying with the law. This pattern of disregard for the staffing law and for the voice of frontline nurses, is enabled by OHA's lack of enforcement the law.

ONA's proposed legislation fixes these problems with the law: it closes loopholes by establishing minimum staffing levels, ensuring nurses get meal and rest breaks, and it improves enforcement processes with tools to hold hospitals accountable and requirements for OHA do so.

The health care system in Oregon must do better and that needs to start now and with the nursing workforce. The pandemic not only demonstrated that the healthcare corporations in Oregon failed to be prepared for a crisis, but that these systems are incapable of getting out of crisis. It is this constant state of crisis that is unsustainable and driving caregivers away from where they are needed, providing direct patient care.

ONA proposes interrupting the dysfunctional cycle at the bedside, in the hospitals, with well-defined minimum RN to Patient staffing standards and clear regulations. Health care systems must be compelled to make investments in systemic changes, not just demand cash subsidies from taxpayers for a problem they created. The report details the result of decades of putting profits before workers and patients. This has resulted in a nursing workforce that feels devalued and devastated when Oregon needs them most.

Sincerely,

Matt Calzia, BSN, RN
Director of Nursing Practice and Professional Development

Nurse Staffing Complaint Dashboard - 10/13/2022

Nurse Staffing Investigations: At a Glance

47 Investigations

- OHA has conducted 47 complaint investigations since 2016, representing 108 complaints. 21 of these complaint investigations were combined with a full nurse staffing survey.

75% of Investigations have 1 Complaint

- 75% of investigations include only one complaint. (Note: A single complaint may have multiple allegations.)

Investigations w/
Multiple Complaints

- For the investigations with multiple complaints, the number of total complaints varies. About half of these investigations include 2 -3 complaints; the other half include an average of 13 complaints.

4 Hospitals

- OHA has investigated six complaints at four hospitals since the July NSAB meeting.

Nurse Staffing Revisit Surveys - 10/13/2022

Standalone Revisits of Cycle 2 Nurse Staffing Surveys

Nurse Staffing Revisits At a Glance

31 Combined Revisits

- OHA has conducted 31 combined revisits since 2021. Combined revisits are revisits for Cycle 1 surveys and/or complaints combined with a Cycle 2 nurse staffing survey.

Average 10 Repeated Noncompliance Citations

- 24 of 25 hospitals surveyed in Cycle 2 have had repeat noncompliance citations. Hospitals average 8 citations that were cited in a previous survey or complaint investigation.

Half of Standalone Revisits: No Deficiencies

- Early data is showing that half (n = 2) of standalone revisits showed the hospital had returned to compliance with the nurse staffing rules.

5 Hospitals

- OHA has conducted standalone revisit surveys at five hospitals since the July NSAB meeting.
