

SB 90 STAFF MEASURE SUMMARY

Senate Committee On Human Services, Mental Health and Recovery

Prepared By: C. Ross, Counsel

Meeting Dates: 2/4

WHAT THE MEASURE DOES:

Protects the addresses of persons with intellectual or developmental disabilities who reside in specified homes or facilities, from disclosure pursuant to a public records request. Takes effect 91st day after sine die.

ISSUES DISCUSSED:

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

No amendment.

BACKGROUND:

Government records are available to the public unless they are exempt from disclosure. Examples of records that may be protected from public disclosure include information about active litigation, trade secrets, investigative materials in criminal proceedings, electors' residential addresses, medical or other similar personal information, and the home addresses and dates of birth of public employees and volunteers.

Senate Bill 90 adds the home addresses of certain persons with intellectual or developmental disabilities to the list of records that are protected from public disclosure.
