SB710:

YELLOW LIGHT: PERMITTED WITH TRAINING

Any restraint performed by an appropriately trained individual when there is an imminent risk of injury as long as it does not include “red light” actions.

GREENLIGHT: ALWAYS PERMITTED

Assisting a child in care to complete a task if the child in care does not resist the physical contact

Holding a child in care's hand or arm to escort the child in care safely and without the use of force

Using minimal force needed to break up a physical fight or effectively protect oneself or another from an assault, serious bodily injury or sexual contact as long as it does not include a "red light" action
