

I support HB 2725

This whole argument reminds me of when I used to live on a gravel road not too many years ago. One of the neighborhood kids got a big SUV when he turned 16. Unfortunately he lived beyond my house on the road. He used to go too fast down the gravel road and kick rocks into my yard, and I knew this because I saw it happen a few times. I spoke to him about this and he said it wasn't him and I couldn't prove it and it's a public road anyway. Even though we put up a 10mph sign on the road, he didn't follow the sign. So, I was stuck cleaning up the rocks in my yard. I guess I'm just saying that we don't need to prove what we can clearly see happening in the Newberg Pool, it needs to stop. And don't get me started on the 100 gallons of gas that these boats consume in a typical weekend. Maybe a carbon tax on these boats?
