

The damage caused by boats specifically designed to generate large wakes is obvious and severe. Both the near shore river ecology and the property of riverside residents is being damaged. Placing limits on the weights of these boats is the right thing to do.