

Dear Committee on Education,

As a white woman who attended public schools, I recognize that my education did me a disservice in being able to recognize and counter racism. It is imperative that my children's generation receive a race-informed education that empowers them to counter racial extremism in all its forms. By not instituting strong educational policies that recognize racist history, we are paralyzing our society's ability to dismantle racism.

Thank you for your consideration,
Alex Renirie