

Getting kids and families outside could also help education and potentially slow the spread of COVID-19.