

Oregon State University SSDP is in support of this bill.

Thousands of individuals still have criminal offenses on their record relating to cannabis laws prior to legalization who would not be convicted of those crimes today. The expungement of these cannabis-related crimes on individuals' records and investment into support of communities disproportionately hurt by cannabis laws begins to provide reparations for the decades of damage these laws have created. HB 3112 would demonstrate commitment to restoring rights to the citizens who have had them removed under laws which have since seen reform.
