

Something needs to be done so that 82nd Avenue in Portland is maintained in a better way. Right now there are potholes and other bumps all over the road, and they are ruining the tires on cars. This bill sounds like a good deal until you realize that the city of Portland is horrible about maintaining roads under their jurisdiction. Someone needs to take responsibility for 82nd Ave and repair it properly without doing stupid things like dropping the speed limit or limiting the number of lanes in the road. I think the state could do that if they tried, but if they are not going to do their job, then it should be taken over by a different jurisdiction that will actually repair the road.
