

We need to clean up our voting rolls. Besides the money it costs is the danger of vote fraud. When unclaimed ballots are delivered to addresses where the voter does not live , anyone can fill them and send it in. The signature verification is not as accurate as it should be. If voters do not exercise their right to vote at least once a year, send them a letter and then remove them. Too many voters are getting ballots that have died, moved, or changed the name.
