

Lumber prices are nearly prohibitive at this time, adding additional costs which will ultimately cost the consumer and raise the cost of construction is unwise. The state government should look at ways to control spending rather than look for ways to exact more taxes from the public.