

This bill will do nothing to address "gun violence". It only serves to further restrict gun owners rights. As a whole, chl holders are some of the most law abiding citizens in the state. They have completed the required training and passed a thorough background check. Why would you restrict their rights?

The last minute amendments to this bill are absolutely ridiculous. Why should gun owners be responsible for what happens after a firearm is stolen or legally transferred? And doing away with the states preemption law is something that should be decided by the voters, not politicians!

My wife waited nearly a year to get her chl, and after training and waiting to ask permission to exercise a constitutional right, that right is about to be essentially nullified. She works in a part of the city that is known for crime, and has decided that she wants the ability to defend herself against a violent attack, should she need to. I thought women's rights were a major concern to our elected officials. Evidently not.

One more thing for you to consider. A lot of new gun owners are people who typically vote Democrat. If you vote to restrict their newfound right to self defense, they may decide to start voting for candidates that don't spend their time trying to chip away at the second amendment.

I respectfully ask that you do not vote to further restrict our rights. But instead, focus on the real problems facing our state.
