

I own and live on 46 acres in Mosier, OR. Our land is composed of orchard and 20+ acres of native forests with a creek. We see all the beautiful wildlife that we have the honor to live among. The coyotes are included in this wildlife. We leave all of the wildlife alone as it's balance is maintained by themselves. We do not interrupt their balance. If you kill the coyotes then you upset their own balance and you will end up with a bigger problem than you think you are solving. Follow the science.
