

I sympathize with other livestock farmers who have lost animals to wild predators because I have as well. I previously wrote that domestic dogs have done more harm to my sheep and goats. I consider myself the main guard animal. my rescued partner, Jimmy the donkey, has assisted me for 16 years. responsible farmers keep pregnant animals and young in a safe guarded location. that takes extra attention and work and lambing is always very tiring but we have had no more predation on our farm. jan nelson