

Let me first say that healthcare is a right. In the richest country in the world, no one should be without adequate healthcare or go into debt in order to get the healthcare they need. Providing healthcare to all Oregonians will have so many positive outcomes. If we can alleviate the financial burden of medical debt and improve overall health by allowing Oregonians to get the medical care they need, we will be a happier, healthier society.

Let's be a shining light for the future of healthcare in this country and demand that healthcare is a human right.
