

Reiki has changed my life, Every single person on the planet was born with the ability to do it and it can truly help people's mental, physical and spiritual health. I have been a reiki grand master for about 5 years and the heart of the practice is grounding and healing. I am not sure why something so positive would need limitation, isn't that what the world needs more of?